Sector	Role	Role Definition
Domestic transport	Truck Driver (Livestock)	Livestock truck drivers are responsible for transporting livestock from one destination to another. Livestock primarily consists of cattle, sheep or goats and may be transported over long distances. Truck drivers are responsible for loading, unloading, and ultimately delivering livestock safely between specific destinations. Truck drivers are also required to feed livestock and monitor the well-being of the animals throughout the journey.
		Additionally, livestock drivers are also responsible for their vehicle. This includes making pre-trip inspections, conducting basic maintenance and repairs, refuelling, and cleaning. Livestock drivers are required to manage paperwork, including documenting the inventory of livestock before, throughout the journey and upon arrival at their destination.
Ports	Stevedore	Stevedores are primarily responsible for loading and unloading livestock from ships docked in port. Additionally, experienced stevedores handling livestock are required to prepare and comply with safe operating procedures. The procedures will be discussed and agreed upon at the livestock pre-loading briefing convened prior to the vessel arriving. Furthermore, stevedores are also required to operate equipment such as cranes, livestock loading gear and safety equipment.
Producer	Livestock Farmer	Livestock farmers raise animals for profit. Livestock primarily consists of cattle, sheep, and goats. While formal qualifications are not typically required, undertaking a vocational education and training course in agriculture is often beneficial. Farmers typically undertake duties such as maintaining the health and condition of livestock, providing pastures and fodder to maintain appropriate nutritional levels, and moving livestock to optimise opportunities for feeding. Additionally, farmers conduct operations such as mustering, as well as overseeing activities such as maintaining paddocks, pens, and sheds.
Exporter	Operations Supervisor	Livestock export supervisors are involved with ensuring that daily operations are conducted in a safe, timely and efficient manner.  Typical responsibilities include the coordination of livestock staff, coordinating animal inductions, capturing data and other relevant documentation as well as and reporting on training programs.
Registered Enterprise	Stockperson	Stockpersons are responsible for the provision of care of livestock while they are in Registered Enterprises. This encompasses administering appropriate treatment of injuries and/or illnesses. The most common duties include feeding, watering, sorting, ear tagging and vaccinating livestock.
Shipboard Transport	Accredited Stockperson	Accredited Stockpersons are responsible for the management of the health and welfare of Australian livestock exported by sea during loading, voyage, and discharge. Industry regulations (ASEL) require all stockpersons accompanying livestock on sea voyages be accredited by LiveCorp.
